About the presenters

Andrew Moulton is a Public Health Inspector who has worked for Middlesex London Health Unit for 6 years. Andrew graduated from Cape Breton University with a Bachelor of Health Sciences.

As a Public Health Inspector on the Food safety and Healthy Environments team for the past 3 years, Andrew plays a lead role in vulnerable occupancies, bed bugs and pests. Prior to amalgamating teams, Andrew was a member of the Health Hazard team, specializing in housing complaints, health hazard mitigation, and providing education to the public on various public health concerns including bed bugs.

Valerie McCourt is a Property Services Manager employed in social housing by the London and Middlesex Housing Corporation (LMHC). She obtained her RCM designation in 2008 and has been a CCI member for 10 years.

Valerie was instrumental in the development of LMHC's Bed Bug Guide in 2012. The guide was designed to assist staff in all aspects of bed bug management including intake, treatment protocols, and tenant education. Her experience in managing the most difficult cases and her knowledge of the condominium world is a winning combination to help Directors, Managers and homeowners learn what they need to know about bed bugs and infestations.

Kristi M. Sargeant-Kerr, LL.B., joined the law firm of Scott Petrie LLP in 2017. Kristi specializes in all aspects of condominium law, including management and litigation. She made this transition after years of personal interest in the condominium field and a keen interest and involvement in mediation and arbitration at numerous administrative Boards and Tribunals since her call to the bar in 2003. Kristi is currently a Director of the London Chapter Board of CCI.
